15 COUNTY OF SANTA CLARA

16 JAMES NOREM, on behalf of himself and 17 others similarly situated,

18 Plaintiff,

19 v.

20 NETFLIX, INC. and WALMART.COM
21 USA, LLC,

22 Defendants.

Case No. 109CV133576

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

Complex Litigation Division

BY FAX

24
25 Plaintiff for this Complaint brought under California law against California Defendants
26 for California residents for treble damages and injunctive and declaratory relief against Netflix, 27 Inc. ("Netflix") and Walmart.com USA, LLC ("Walmart.com") (hereinafter collectively, 28 "Defendants"):

UNDERLYING FACTS

1. On or about May 19, 2005, Netflix and Walmart.com (a wholly owned subsidiary of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc.) agreed to divide the markets for the sales and online rentals of DVDs in the United States ("Defendants' Unlawful Market Division Agreement"), with the specific purpose and intended effect of monopolizing and otherwise unreasonably restraining trade in the online DVD rental market.

2. Prior to entering into the Defendants' Unlawful Market Division Agreement, Netflix and Walmart.com were essentially the only direct competitors in the online DVD rental business, and both were also competitors in directly selling DVDs to consumers.

3. By May 2005, Netflix and Walmart.com (a wholly owned subsidiary of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc.) entered into an agreement by which Walmart.com would cease competing with Netflix in the online DVD rental business, and Netflix would promote the sales of new DVDs by Walmart.com online (and Wal-Mart Stores). In exchange, Netflix agreed to cease any sale of new DVDs.

4. Defendants' conspiracy enabled Netflix to increase its overpricing (and profits) by establishing higher subscription rates for DVD rentals. As a result of this contract, as well as Netflix's unlawfully and illegally obtained and maintained market and monopoly power, Netflix subsequently did in fact overcharge Plaintiff and Class members for subscription fees.

5. Under the Defendants' Unlawful Market Division Agreement, Netflix and Walmart.com agreed that they would restrain trade and eliminate competition. Walmart.com agreed that it would stop competing with Netflix in the online rental market. Netflix agreed that it would not sell new DVDs, but instead would promote the DVD sales of Walmart.com (and Wal-Mart Stores).

6. In promoting the sale of DVDs by Walmart.com (and Wal-Mart Stores), Netflix provided "consideration" for the agreement by Wal-Mart Stores and Walmart.com, so that Walmart.com would exit the online DVD rental market and simultaneously confirmed to Walmart.com (and Wal-Mart Stores) that Netflix would not enter the market to sell new DVDs, as Netflix was well-positioned and otherwise had the unilateral economic incentive to do.

7. Since entering into the Defendants' Unlawful Market Division Agreement, neither Wal-Mart Stores nor Walmart.com has rented DVDs online and Netflix has not sold new DVDs online to customers. The Defendants' Unlawful Market Division Agreement served to entrench and enhance Defendants' respective dominant positions in this market and otherwise cause harm to competition, including enabling Netflix to charge higher subscription rates for online DVD rentals than it would have had they not entered into the agreement.

8. Online DVD “rentals” are a distinct and separate market from DVD “sales.” The price of a new DVD depends heavily on how popular it is, including whether it is a new release or how successful the title originally was at the box office or on television. By contrast, online DVD renters generally charge based on a monthly or yearly subscription fee.

9. Plaintiff and all other similarly situated consumers in fact paid higher subscription prices to Netflix.

10. This case is brought as a Class Action filed on behalf of all consumers in California who, during the period May 19, 2005 to the present, paid a subscription fee to rent DVDs from Netflix.

PLAINTIFF

11. James Norem is an individual consumer who resides in San Francisco, California. During the Class Period, Plaintiff Norem directly subscribed to Netflix for his personal, non-commercial use. Plaintiff Norem is a member of the proposed Class and has been injured by Defendants' conduct.

DEFENDANTS

12. Defendant Netflix is a corporation headquartered at 100 Winchester Circle, Los Gatos, California, 95032. Through its website, www.netflix.com, Netflix rents DVDs directly to consumers nationwide by charging monthly subscription fees, which allows customers to rent DVDs pursuant to various subscription plans. Netflix has possessed a market share of no less than 75% of the online DVD rental market in the United States at all times during the Class Period.

13. Defendant Walmart.com is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Wal-Mart Stores.

1 Walmart.com is a Delaware company with its headquarters and operations at 7000 Marina
2 Boulevard, Brisbane, California, 94005. It is the online component of Wal-Mart Stores' retail
3 empire that is the leading seller of new DVDs in the United States. Prior to the conspiracy
4 alleged herein, Walmart.com was also a major competitor of Netflix in the online DVD rental
5 market through the "Walmart DVD Rentals" service. Through the website, www.walmart.com, 6 Defendant Walmart.com sells DVDs directly to consumers nationwide.

7 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

8 14. This Complaint is filed pursuant to California Business and Professions Code 9 sections 16720, et seq., commonly known as the Cartwright Act. Under California Business and 10 Professions Code section 16750(a), Plaintiffs seek to recover treble the damages Plaintiffs and 11 the members of the Class have sustained due to Defendants' illegal activities.

12 15. Venue is proper in Santa Clara County under California Business and Professions
13 Code section 16750(a), and California Code of Civil Procedure section 395.5. Defendant 14 Netflix's principal place of business is in Santa Clara County.

15 16. The amount in controversy for the individual Plaintiff and for each Class member 16 is less than $75,000 per Class member.

17 17. No portion of this Complaint is brought pursuant to federal law.

18 18. All the members of the proposed Class are residents of the State of California.

19 CLASS ALLEGATIONS

20 19. Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of himself and the members of the Class, 21 defined as comprising:

22 All residents of California who paid a "subscription fee" to Netflix
23 to rent DVDs online after May 19, 2005 up to the present.

24 20. The Class numbers in the thousands. The exact number and identities of the 25 members are known by Defendants. Excluded from the Class are government entities, 26 Defendants, their co-conspirators and their representatives, parents, subsidiaries, and affiliates.

27 21. The Class is so numerous and geographically dispersed that joinder of all 28 members is impracticable.

1 22. There are questions of law and fact common to the Class and the members
2 thereof. These common questions relate to the existence of the conspiracy alleged, and to the 3 type and common pattern of injuries sustained as a result thereof. The questions include, but are 4 not limited to:

- 5 (a) Whether Defendants engaged in a contract, combination, or conspiracy to
- 6 allocate markets;
- 7 (b) Whether Defendants unreasonably restrained trade in the online DVD
- 8 rental market;
- 9 (c) Whether Defendants had the specific intent for Netflix to monopolize the
- 10 online DVD rental market;
- 11 (d) The nature and character of the acts performed by Defendants in
- 12 furtherance of the alleged contract, combination, and conspiracy;
- 13 (e) Whether the alleged contract, combination, and conspiracy violated
- 14 California law;
- 15 (f) The anticompetitive effects of Defendants' violations of the law;
- 16 (g) Whether Defendants have acted or refused to act on grounds generally
- 17 applicable to the Class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief
- 18 or corresponding declaratory relief with respect to the Class as a whole;
- 19 and
- 20 (h) Whether the conduct of Defendants, as alleged in this Complaint, caused
- 21 Netflix subscription fees to be higher than they otherwise would have been
- 22 and thereby caused injury to the business and property of Plaintiff and
- 23 other members of the Class.

24 23. The questions of law and fact common to the members of the Class predominate
25 over any questions affecting only individual members, including the legal and factual issues 26 relating to liability and damages.

27 24. Plaintiff is a member of the Class. Their claims are typical of the claims of other 28 members of the Class, and they will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the members of the Class. Their interests are aligned with, and not antagonistic to, those of the other members of the Class.

 25. Plaintiff is represented by Audet & Partners, LLP, a law firm experienced with class action antitrust litigation and familiar with the Rules of this Court.

 26. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy. Class treatment will permit the adjudication of relatively small

1 claims by members of the Class who otherwise could not afford to litigate antitrust claims such 2 as are asserted in this Complaint. This class action presents no difficulties of management that 3 would preclude its maintenance as a class action.

4 FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

5 [Violation of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code Sections 16720 (Cartwright Act)]

23 Prof. Code Section 16727. The conduct includes, but is not limited to, contracts for the effect of 24 which is to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in the trade.

25 33. For the purpose of restraining trade and maintaining and profiting from its 26 monopoly, Defendants have engaged in unlawful acts.

27 34. Defendants' behavior alleged herein has had, inter alia, the following effects:

- 28 (a) Price competition in the DVD rental market has been restrained, suppressed and/or eliminated; and

1 (b) Those who subscribe to DVD rentals have been deprived of the benefit of 2 free and open competition.

3 35. Plaintiff and the other members of the Class paid supra-competitive, artificially
4 inflated prices in the DVD online rental market and higher subscription fees.

6 [Violations of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200. (Unfair Competition Act)]

7 (Against All Defendants)

8 36. Plaintiff incorporates and realleges, as though fully set forth herein, each and 13 alleged herein, in violation of section 17200 of the California Business and Professions Code, 14 commonly known as the Unfair Competition Act.

15 38. The conduct alleged herein violates California Business and Professions Code
16 section 17200. The acts and business practices, as alleged herein, constituted and constitute a 17 common, continuous, and continuing course of conduct of unfair competition by means of unfair,

28 16727, et seq., are otherwise unfair, unconscionable, unlawful and/or fraudulent within the meaning of California Business and Professions
Code section 17200.

39. Plaintiff and the other members of the Class are each entitled to full restitution or disgorgement of all revenues, earnings, profits, compensation, and benefits which may have been obtained by Defendants as a result of these business acts or practices.

7 every allegation set forth in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

8 42. Defendant Netflix has been unjustly enriched through overpayments of 9 subscription fees by Plaintiff and Class members.

10 43. Defendant Netflix should not be allowed to retain the monetary benefits conferred 11 via overpayments by Plaintiff and Class members of the subscription fees.

12 44. Plaintiff seeks disgorgement of all overpayments and establishment of a 13 constructive trust from which Plaintiff and Class members may seek appropriate relief.

14 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

15 WHEREFORE, Plaintiff, on behalf of himself and the members of the Class, prays for

11 Professions Code;

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF SANTA CLARA
ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION
INFORMATION SHEET / CIVIL DIVISION

Many cases can be resolved to the satisfaction of all parties without the necessity of traditional litigation, which can be expensive, time consuming, and stressful. The Court finds that it is in the best interests of the parties that they participate in alternatives to traditional litigation, including arbitration, mediation, neutral evaluation, special masters and referees, and settlement conferences. Therefore, all matters shall be referred to an appropriate form of Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) before they are set for trial, unless there is good cause to dispense with the ADR requirement.

What is ADR?

ADR is the general term for a wide variety of dispute resolution processes that are alternatives to litigation. Types of ADR processes include mediation, arbitration, neutral evaluation, special masters and referees, and settlement conferences, among others forms.

What are the advantages of choosing ADR instead of litigation?

ADR can have a number of advantages over litigation:

- < ADR can save time. A dispute can be resolved in a matter of months, or even weeks, while litigation can take years.
- < ADR can save money. Attorney's fees, court costs, and expert fees can be reduced or avoided altogether.
- < ADR provides more participation. Parties have more opportunities with ADR to express their interests and concerns, instead of focusing exclusively on legal rights.
- < ADR provides more control and flexibility. Parties can choose the ADR process that is most likely to bring a satisfactory resolution to their dispute.
- < ADR can reduce stress. ADR encourages cooperation and communication, while discouraging the adversarial atmosphere of litigation. Surveys of parties who have participated in an ADR process have found much greater satisfaction than with parties who have gone through litigation.

What are the main forms of ADR offered by the Court?

- < Mediation is an informal, confidential process in which a neutral party (the mediator) assists the parties in understanding their own interests, the interests of the other parties, and the practical and legal realities they all face. The mediator then helps the parties to explore options and arrive at a mutually acceptable resolution of the dispute. The mediator does not decide the dispute. The parties do.
- < Mediation may be appropriate when:
 - < The parties want a non-adversary procedure
 - < The parties have a continuing business or personal relationship
 - < Communication problems are interfering with a resolution
 - < There is an emotional element involved
 - < The parties are interested in an injunction, consent decree, or other form of equitable relief

< Arbitration is a less formal process than a trial, with no jury. The arbitrator hears the evidence and arguments of the parties, then makes a written decision. The parties can agree to binding or non-binding arbitration. In binding arbitration, the arbitrator's decision is final and completely resolves the case, without the opportunity for appeal. In non-binding arbitration, the arbitrator's decision could resolve the case, without the opportunity for appeal, unless a party timely rejects the arbitrator's decision within 30 days and requests a trial. Private arbitrators are allowed to charge for their time.

Arbitration may be appropriate when:

- < The action is for personal injury, property damage, or breach of contract
- < Only monetary damages are sought
- < Witness testimony, under oath, needs to be evaluated
- < An advisory opinion is sought from an experienced litigator (if a non-binding arbitration)

< Civil Judge ADR allows parties to have a mediation or settlement conference with an experienced judge of the Superior Court. Mediation is an informal, confidential, flexible and non-binding process in which the judge helps the parties to understand the interests of everyone involved, and their practical and legal choices. A settlement conference is an informal process in which the judge meets with the parties or their attorneys, hears the facts of the dispute, helps identify issues to be resolved, and normally suggests a resolution that the parties may accept or use as a basis for further negotiations. The request for mediation or settlement conference may be made promptly by stipulation (agreement) upon the filing of the Civil complaint and the answer. There is no charge for this service.

Civil Judge ADR may be appropriate when:

- < The parties have complex facts to review
- < The case involves multiple parties and problems
- < The courthouse surroundings would be helpful to the settlement process

< Special masters and referees are neutral parties who may be appointed by the court to obtain information or to make specific fact findings that may lead to a resolution of a dispute.

Special masters and referees can be particularly effective in complex cases with a number of parties, like construction disputes.

< Settlement conferences are informal processes in which the neutral (a judge or an experienced attorney) meets with the parties or their attorneys, hears the facts of the dispute, helps identify issues to be resolved, and normally suggests a resolution that the parties may accept or use as a basis for further negotiations.

Settlement conferences can be effective when the authority or expertise of the judge or experienced attorney may help the parties reach a resolution.

What kind of disputes can be resolved by ADR?

Although some disputes must go to court, almost any dispute can be resolved through ADR. This includes disputes involving business matters; civil rights; collections; corporations; construction; consumer protection; contracts; copyrights; defamation; disabilities; discrimination; employment; environmental problems; fraud; harassment; health care; housing; insurance; intellectual property; labor; landlord/tenant; media; medical malpractice and other professional negligence; neighborhood problems; partnerships; patents; personal injury; probate; product liability; property damage; real estate; securities; sports; trade secret; and wrongful death, among other matters.
